

HELPING HEARTS

Anna

Survivor, 10th Grade

Anna is very active and has been cheering since she was in the third grade. That is why it came as a shock when she unexpectedly went into cardiac arrest while running sprints during her PE class. Doctors are unsure as to why this happened so as an extra precaution, they implanted an S-CID on Anna's left side in case it was to happen again. This experience gave Anna a new perspective on life, and she has become a strong advocate for heart health with her family and friends.
